

Fighting for Children's Rights

Me and My Stupendous life

Sometimes I sit down and think to myself, I have outrageous toys and the most spectacular family, and also I travel to so many STUPENDOUS places! And then I sit down and wonder how many kids don't travel and don't have toys and most importantly they don't even have family.

An Idea

It was Friday March 24, 17 days before my birthday it was the night my family and me came back from Marco Island where I got a hair wrap and saw live starfish and hermit crabs. When all of a sudden it hit me, I just came back from Marco Island! And then I said maybe for a change instead of me getting presents for my birthday I should give someone else presents.

The Process

My mom and me did a lot of research, and finally we found a foundation for children called Florida Children's First. Then my mom called them and told them I would like to make a donation and then she asked how to word it on my invitation.

DONATING FEELS GOOD!

The Finale

Now its 13 days before my birthday and I feel really good about donating to kids that don't have anything. I'm sure the children at Florida first will appreciate my idea to help their cause.
